

Operational distinctness is supported when layers differ in target utility or remain non-equivalent under redundancy analysis.